

New Security Paradigms Workshop (NSPW)

Victoria, British Columbia, Canada

September 15–18, 2014

Why choose NSPW?

- NSPW puts your paper in the spotlight
- Each paper gets about an hour of discussion time
- A highly interactive, invitation-only venue, 30-40 participants
- 10-12 accepted papers are discussed during the 3-day period

As a researcher, you work so many tireless hours to develop an idea, and NSPW would like to provide a unique opportunity to put your work at the center of discussion. By encouraging participants to think “outside the box” and giving them an opportunity to communicate with open-minded peers, NSPW seeks to foster paradigm shifts in the field of information security.

To address today’s diverse and plentiful security and privacy, NSPW welcomes unconventional, promising approaches to important security problems and innovative critiques of current security theory and practice.
